

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An audio system S comprises a server 1 and a terminal 10 wherein the server 1 has a substorage section 5b for storing correspondence information pieces provided in a one-to-one correspondence with the pieces of information and indicating contents and attributes of each piece of music and a CPU 4 for transferring each piece of music to be transferred to the terminal 10 together with the correspondence information piece corresponding to the piece of music to the terminal 10 and for storing the correspondence information returned from the terminal 10 in the substorage section 5b in place of the former correspondence information and the terminal 10 has a CPU 14 for updating the correspondence information corresponding to each piece of music listened depending on a mode in which the user listens to the piece of music and to return the updated correspondence information to the server 1.